Recommendation letter

Being a personnel agency for development cooperation, the Association for development Cooperation complements the activities of church organizations such as Misereor, Missio, Caritas, Adveniat etc. For its partners AGEH recruits, consults, trains and assists professional experts. Within the preparatory training each participant is trained individually and intensively.

Since many years we are working together with CIDAC booking Portuguese and Tetum courses for our aid workers who will be working in lusophone Africa and in East Timor. We appreciate the individual, tailor-made trainings as well as the great flexibility and reliability in the booking progress and administration.

The most important point, however, is the excellent quality of the CIDAC language courses. The feedback from our experts confirms this regularly:

- teachers are always qualified and well prepared. They inform each other on the current level of the training and look after individual training needs.
- language learning material is always up-to-date and relevant to the future post
- relevant and useful information on cultural and socio-political aspects of the future host country
- general welcoming, hospitable and need-orientated atmosphere at CIDAC

As an organization which has worked since 50 years in the field of development cooperation we know that language skills are as important as professional and soft skills. Appropriate language skills are essential for any effective work cooperation and to fit into the culture.

We greatly appreciate our close cooperation with CIDAC and highly recommend their services.
